Abstract: Communication between teacher and student is important not only in English lesson, but also for other classes. This article focuses on what interaction is, the importance of interaction between teacher and student and how to increase teacher-student interaction in ESL classroom.

Key words: teacher, student, interaction, English, class, communication.

First of all, it is necessary to have information about what is the interaction between the teacher and the student, when it happens. Interaction is the centre of communication. The central goal of second language learning in oral or written is communication. Among learners, learner and teacher, teacher and learner need to cooperate and interact. In short, communication is derived from interaction since in communication there must be interaction between people who have something to share (Rivers, 1987.) There are different modes of interaction in education such as that student-student, student-teacher, and student-content.

Now it is necessary to clarify the questions of when the interaction between the teacher and the student appears and how it can be increased. It is the achievement of the teachers that the students feel the English environment in the interaction. As an English teacher, it plays important role to make students feel comfortable, relaxed and also ready to participate in class. This is why it is so essential to include and provide positive interaction in the English language learning classroom.

Interaction between teacher and students is necessary classroom activities based on communicative approach. The activities make the learning and teaching process easier and more effective and the gap between the teacher and the students in the classroom will disappear when the teacher and students' interactions occur. It is possible to increase the interaction between the teacher and the student by choosing exercises that provide for learning way of each student, especially for visual learners, for auditory learners, and for others. Because the interaction between the teacher and the student happen when they perform various activities including questions-and-answer sessions, writing assignments, when the student is asked questions by the teacher, when the teacher corrects the student's mistakes, gives them feedback and motivation in the class.

In conclusion, the interaction between the teacher and the student plays a big role in teaching English. In addition, it helps to easily organize the learning process and acquire the topics without difficulties, and improves communication of students in the classroom
